DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

The cancellation of claims 17-36 is noted. The affirmation of naproxen as the anti-inflammatory compound is also noted on the record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 99/44623 (abstract, page 4, lines 3-15, page 6, lines 6-20).

WO teaches that hops and naproxen can be in the same composition. It would have been obvious to select them from the list since they are both noted to be used in a single composition to treat inflammation.

Art Unit: 1655

Applicant argues that WO does not teach experiments involving hops but the reference clearly teaches that hops and naproxen can be used together as noted already on the record (see WO page 4, lines 3-12). Simply because hops and naproxen were not specifically used in the examples of WO does not negate or disqualify WO as an appropriate reference. Applicant also alleges that there are unexpected results using their combination of hops and naproxen but the citations that applicant provided do not teach what applicant states they do. In fact the citations do not teach any unexpected results. Further, even if the teachings were there, applicant's claims are not commensurate in scope with the alleged unexpected results anyway. Thus, applicant needs to provide column and line where the citations are in their specification and amend the claims commensurate in scope with any alleged unexpected results.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 406312924 (abstract) or JP 04202138 (abstract) taken with Sunshine et al. (US patent No. 4780463-see col. 4, line 65- col. 5, line 15, col. 6, lines 1-20, col. 10, lines 20-30) or CA 2175091 (abstract).

JP 406312924 (abstract) or JP 04202138 (abstract) both teach hops extracts used to treat inflammation.

Sunshine et al. (US patent No. 4780463-see col. 4, line 65- col. 5, line 15, col. 6, lines 1-20, col. 10, lines 20-30) or CA 2175091 (abstract) both teach naproxen used to treat inflammation.

Art Unit: 1655

It is well known that it is prima facie obvious to combine two or more ingredients each of which is taught by the prior art to be useful for the same purpose in order to form a third composition which is useful for the same purpose. The idea for combining them flows logically from their having been used individually in the prior art. In re Sussman, 1943 C.D. 518; In re Pinten, 459 F.2d 1053, 173 USPQ 801 (CCPA 1972); In re Susi, 58 CCPA 1074, 1079-80; 440 F.2d 442, 445; 169 USPQ 423, 426 (1971); In re Crockett, 47 CCPA 1018, 1020-21; 279 F.2d 274, 276-277; 126 USPQ 186, 188 (1960).

The reason or motivation to modify a reference may often suggest what the inventor has done, but for a different purpose or to solve a different problem. It is not necessary that the prior art suggest the combination to achieve the same advantage or result discovered by applicant. While there must be motivation to make the claimed invention, there is no requirement that the prior art provide the same reason as the applicant to make the claimed invention.

MPEP 2144 Sources of Rationale Supporting a Rejection Under 35 U.S.C. 103.
<http://www.uspto.gov/web/offices/pac/mpep/documents/2100_2144.htm>

Thus, it would have been obvious to combine the hops with the naproxen in a single composition since naproxen and hops are both known in the art individually to treat inflammation, i.e. to be used as an anti-inflammatory.

Applicant argues that the prior art only suggests a combination of hops with NSAIDs reduces inflammation, but not that the combination reduces the side effects caused by NSAIDs inhibition of COX-1. This simply is not on point. The combination of the references only has to suggest the combination of the two elements to arrive at applicants invention which the prior art does. The reasoning does not have to be applicant's reasons for combining the two elements only the same reason (which was to treat inflammation), thus motivating one to combine the two elements which the references do establish.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
